IT TOOK seven minutes to restore life to pretty Mrs. Julia Brittan (above) after her heart stopped beating while she was being anesthetized for an appendectomy in Chicago. Doctor Max Thorek made three incisions leading to her heart and then massaged it with his hand. A feeble beat rewarded him for his daring surgery less than 30 seconds later. He then proceeded with the appendectomy and the patient is now "doing nicely." (International)

Truman Trouble Is Brewing Now In California

Republican Campaign, Meanwhile, Beginning To Get Under Way

(By the Associated Press)
California Democrats hung a "wait and see" tag on their 62 national convention votes.

Although all the state's delegates signed statements yesterday that they preferred President Truman as the party's nominee, a spokesman said this was not a definite pledge.

"We're leaving California as a Truman delegation and will see what happens at Philadelphia, according to conditions at that time," John F. Shelley, delegation chairman said. He said his group had decided to caucus on any question that comes up at the national sessions opening July 12 in Philadelphia.

This development, coming on the heels of the Republicans' selection of Gov. Earl Warren of California as running mate to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, foreshadowed later trouble for Mr. Truman if he wins the party nomination. Warren demonstrated his popularity with California voters two years ago when both the Republicans and Democrats picked him as their candidate for a second term as governor.

The Wisconsin Democratic convention broke up amid shouts of "We want Eisenhower" yesterday after failing to make a specific endorsement of President Truman.

The two-day meeting of 400 delegates ended in discord when Chairman Leland McFarland ruled a motion to adjourn had been passed before introduction of the Eisenhower question.

Delegates who wanted to act on the resolution calling for a draft of General Eisenhower hooted and shouted when McFarland put the adjournment motion before the convention.

Meanwhile the Democrats headed into the final week of delegate picking. The District of Columbia will select a six-vote delegation at a primary today. The national slate of 1,234 will be completed Friday when Virginia Democrats choose a 26-vote delegation expected to be anti-Truman.

But to date Mr. Truman counts 670 pledged and claimed delegates, with 618 being required for nomination.

While the GOP candidates took things easy over the weekend, Republican senators carried on the campaign fight.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) returned to Washington "completely happy" about the Philadelphia results. He praised Dewey and Warren and said the party's platform is "an unequivocal commitment to international cooperation for peace and security."

The GOP platform also was hailed by Senator Baldwin (R-Conn.) as "very, very liberal."

But Senator McGrath (D-R.I.) took another view of this. The national Democratic party chair-

Yugoslav Leaders Come Under Fire From Moscow - Reshuffle in Prospect

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 28—(P)—The Communist cominform charged today Yugoslav Communists had departed from the Marx-Lenin line and that their leaders, including Premier Marshal Tito, pursued a hateful policy toward Soviet Russia.

The cominform called for "either a true return to Marxist policy or a change of Communist leaders in Yugoslavia."

This marked the first break in the ranks of the nine eastern nations which formed the cominform—the international Communist "information bureau"—at a meeting in Poland last fall. Yugoslavs were among the founders and cominform headquarters were established in Tito's capital, Belgrade.

An official statement today said Yugoslav representatives of the Communist party refused to take part in a session of the cominform held "the latter part of June" in Romania.

WASHINGTON, June 28—(P)—A White House conference on the Russian blockade of ground transport to western Berlin was indicated today.

There was no public comment on the situation, which has prompted the United States to rush a fleet of huge cargo planes to Germany.

But Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross, in response to questions at a news conference, called attention to the fact that President Truman had an appointment with Undersecretary of State Lovett.

Ross said he assumed the new Berlin crisis would come up for discussion then.

Officials here interpret the Russian actions as designed primarily to force the three western powers out of Berlin and then convert it into the Communist-controlled capital of an eastern German state.

A British foreign office spokesman said yesterday in London that the Western Nations were considering a direct "approach" to Moscow, evidently in an effort to obtain an order from Premier Stalin which would revise the Soviet policies in Berlin and ease the highly dangerous situation developing there.

State Department officials had no comment on the British statement. An effort will be made to fill the most urgent needs of the 2,000,000 or so Germans in Berlin's three western sectors by air transport.

Thirty-five planes had arrived at Tempelhof from Frankfurt by 10:30 A. M. and 23 more were in the air between two cities.

Special crews were on duty at the airport to unload the planes so they could return as quickly as possible.

The U. S. Air Force hoped to send 100 or more planes in daily as long as necessary. But even the 120 planes scheduled today could bring only 300 tons of supplies.

For the people of the western sectors the western allies formerly brought in 2,000 tons of food daily by rail.

In Berlin tension relaxed somewhat as the currency exchange of the last week was completed and stores reopened for business. But over the city hung a threat of hunger even the Americans and

Record-Herald Welcome Mat
Is Laid Out for Open House

Plans were in readiness Monday in all departments of the Record-Herald for the big open house.

Those responsible for staging the event made a plea: Please come early and, if possible, avoid the crowds.

The open house is scheduled to begin at 7 P. M. and, if present plans continue, will end at 9 o'clock.

All departments of the paper—editorial, business, advertising, circulation, mechanical and job printing—have arranged to show the Record-Herald's friends and subscribers how their newspaper is published.

The huge rotary press in the back shop will be turned on two or three times during the evening.

There will be refreshments and souvenirs for those attending in the upstairs clubrooms of the Record-Herald building.

Old copies of the Herald and Record-Herald dating back to the nomination of William Howard Taft for president will be seen by those attending.

Will we be seeing you?

250,000 Facing Draft During First Year, Tip

Training Centers Designated for Army; New Men Subject to Overseas Service

WASHINGTON, June 28—(P)—The army estimated today that between 225,000 and 250,000 men probably will be inducted during the first year of the new military draft.

This is considerably above a previous estimate that 200,000 to 225,000 will be put into uniform during the period.

The first call for induction, starting soon after September 22, will be "relatively small," Army Secretary Royall told a news conference.

But he said the calls will increase until the average monthly induction rate is about 30,000.

Royall also announced the names of four World War II training centers to be reopened as division training centers for inductees and the expected 250,000 to 300,000 volunteers expected during the coming year.

They are Fort Riley, Kansas, Tenth Infantry (Mountain Division); Camp Chaffee, Ark., Fifth Armored Division; Camp Breckinridge, Ky., 101st Airborne Division; and Camp Pickett, Va., 17th Airborne Division.

Four other training centers were announced, previously: Fort Ord, Calif.; Fort Jackson, S. C.; Fort Dix, N. J.; and Fort Knox, Ky.

Royall gave this survey of the training situation:

The army, which will get the bulk of the selective service inductions, now has a strength of law, this total may be increased to 837,000—counting both inductions and volunteers (the army is authorized to accept up to 110,000 18-year-old volunteer trainees for one year of service, all in the United States).

But the available appropriations will make it necessary to keep the total troop strength at not more than 790,000 men between now and July 1, 1949.

When a draftee is taken into the army, he will be sent to the induction station nearest his home. From there he will go to one of the eight training centers

Cleveland 'Blackout'

CLEVELAND, June 28—(P)—Several hundred homes and business establishments from East 9th to East 36th Streets had a power blackout last night when a rainstorm flooded some streets with 10 inches of water and cut off current from the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. for one-half hour.

Grandmother Wins Radio Jackpot

NEW YORK, June 28—(P)—Because she was conscientious about getting home to feed her dog, a 42-year-old grandmother was there to receive a radio jackpot telephone call which made her $20,000 richer.

Mrs. Mary Farber won that much in prizes last night for correctly naming the title of the "mystery melody" on the ABC network's "Stop The Music" program.

The title was "Get Out of the Wilderness," an 1860 song later corrupted into several other melodies.

Among the prizes are a $1,000 U. S. savings bond, a 38-day cruise to South America, a $1,000 fur coat, an automobile and a $1,000 diamond ring.

Mrs. Farber and her husband, a taxicab driver, plan to sell some of the prizes to build a home and

Numbers of Dead Not Yet Known But Toll Heavy

Few Americans In Area Hurt, Early Reports Indicate

TOKYO, June 28—(P)—Three heavy earthquakes followed by fire wrecked the western Honshu city of Fukui late today.

Japanese newspapers guessed the total of dead and injured might reach 5,000, but U. S. occupation authorities said first fears had proved excessive and declined to make an estimate.

The only known casualty figures were 10 dead and 60 injured at Daishoji, coastal village 20 miles northeast of Fukui.

"It is apparently not as bad as we thought it was," said Brig. Gen. Crawford Sams, head of the occupation's health and welfare section. "Damage appears to be pretty well localized."

Col. C. C. Carter, adjutant general of the first corps, told the Associated Press there were no indications of any tidal wave. Japanese had earlier expressed fears there might be such waves, as they often follow coastal earthquakes.

Fukui, a city of 85,000 population, is 200 miles west of Tokyo and ten miles from the sea of Japan.

It was 85 percent destroyed by American Superfortresses in July, 1945, but since had been largely rebuilt.

No American Figures

Occupation headquarters had no figures immediately on the number of Americans in the area, but said all apparently were safe. There were no reports on American casualties, and a Japanese broadcast from the area said "all occupation personnel okay," Colonel Carter declared.

The epicenter of the earth shocks appeared to be in Fukui. Tokyo and Osaka, the latter 160 miles southeast of the scene, felt the shocks but reported no damage, and there were no disaster reports from points outside the immediate Fukui vicinity.

The first shock hit Fukui at 4:12 P. M. (1:12 A. M.—Eastern Standard Time). It was followed by two others, with fire resulting almost at once.

Reports Exaggerated

Original reports said 900 houses collapsed in the first shock, but this later was scaled down by the army to about 200.

Other army reports said there was no fire and damage was slight at the big manufacturing city of Kanazawa. A long silence from the city of 186,000 people had produced fears of a heavy toll.

Few American occupation personnel are stationed in the quake area.

Tidal wave warnings were issued. Japanese, remembering the 44,000 thousand who died in the 1923 Tokyo quake, were jittery.

The heaviest damage appeared to be in three prefectures, Fugui, Ishikawa and Toyama.

Buildings in Tokyo—several hundred miles to the northeast—swayed and the quakes were felt at Nagoya, Kobe, Osaka and Kyoto.

(Honolulu) reported a sharp earthquake there at 1:38 A. M. (Honolulu time).

The Osaka meteorological service said the first of three temblors struck at 7:12 A. M. Other reports placed the number of temblors at four.

Communications with the stricken area were disrupted. (Please turn to Page Two)

Hundreds Homeless After China Flood

HONG KONG, June 28—(P)—Travelers from Swatow in south China estimated today between 200,000 and 300,000 persons lost their homes in the area's worst flood in 50 years.

Whole families, they said, were drowned by swiftly rushing waters that swept away their fragile quarters.

Homeless were making their way to Amoy and Foochow.

Money To Block Reds Laid on Line by U. S.

Foreign Aid Appropriation Bill Signed By President Provides Aid For Europe

WASHINGTON, June 28—(P)—America put $6,000,000,000 on the line today to strengthen the non-Communist world.

President Truman signed into law the huge appropriation bill to finance foreign aid as the western powers watched anxiously Russia's latest pressure play in Berlin. Normal supply routes to the U. S.-British-French zones there have been blocked by the Soviets.

As the president acted, Ireland became the first of 16 European nations under the Marshall Plan for economic recovery to sign a formal agreement with the United States. Each nation will sign a pact to work for the common good.

The president's signature planted America's economic power squarely behind the most ambitious world rebuilding program in history.

It pledges to western Europe and far eastern countries to spend within 15 months—within a year if necessary—this vast sum in the cause of recovery and political freedom.

Authors of the bill also made it clear that the intent also is to throw up a barrier against the spread of Communism by governments outside of the iron curtain.

In a statement the president said the appropriation represents "the combined judgment and will of the executive and the Congress."

Briefly, the law provides:

(1) $4,000,000,000 (B) for the Economic Cooperation Administration (ECA) to help 16 western European nations. The money is in addition to $1,055,000,000 (B) already given ECA by Congress. The program is spread over 15 months, but the president may authorize the money to be spent in 12 months if he believes it is necessary.

(2) $400,000,000 for aid to China. ECA will direct the recovery part of the China program. But $125,000,000 of the funds will be spent for military purposes by the Chinese government.

(3) $1,300,000,000 for government and relief in occupied areas. Japan, Korea and the Ryukyus Islands will receive the benefits of about $125,000,000 of this amount, to be spent through the army.

(4) $225,000,000 for aid to Turkey and Greece.

(5) $35,000,000 to the international children's emergency feeding program in Europe.

(6) $70,710,228 to international refugee organization.

By Wash Fayette

With approach of the annual Fayette County Fair, which will be held July 27 to 31, memories of years during bygone days are recalled.

A few days ago Harold Craig, treasurer of the Fayette County Agricultural Society, received from Harry Rodecker a former resident who now lives in Columbus, two tickets "good for one continuous passage from the Fair Grounds to Washington C. H." when the old Cincinnati and Muskingum Valley Railroad Co. operated a shuttle train from this city to the Fairgrounds, with a spur which run from the main tracks across the Wilmington Highway and into the Fair Grounds.

Each ticket is dated August 16, 1900, a matter of 48 years ago. They are highly prized by the treasurer of the present organization.

In a note enclosed, Harry stated: "These tickets were used 48 years ago, Aug. 16, 1900, when the old C. & M. V. R.R. operated shuttle trains to and from the Fair Grounds."

"These tickets, found among my souvenirs, bring back memories when, as ticket agent, I sold hundreds of them each day."

The train did a big business back in the "horse and buggy" days, and each year hauled thousands of passengers to and from the Fair Grounds here.

Always a losing venture, the project was eventually abandoned by the railroad, and the tracks torn up soon after the turn of the century.

Rio Grande Is On Rampage

ZAPATA, Tex., June 28—(P)—The Rio Grande, on an out-of-character spree, surged through its lower valley's rich region today in a rush to dump its flood crest into the Gulf of Mexico.

The angry river, which usually trickles idly well within its banks, rolled a 45-foot crest past here yesterday but failed to tear away the little suspension bridge that links Zapata with Mexico.

Harvey Cunningham, inspector of customs, said the bridge would be reopened for traffic today. The bridge was closed early yesterday.

Both Frank and boat were thrown, he estimated, about 15 feet into the air.

When he came down, the young fisherman said, he landed on the whale's back. He dug his fingers deep into the soft blubber.

After a short ride of "20 knots or better," Frank related, the whale sounded and he took a long chance and dove off before the mammal submerged.

Young Cabral swam as fast as he could to his father's dory and was pulled aboard.

"It was a funny feeling," Frank exclaimed as he examined his dory which had a large hole in the bottom.

PROVIDENCE, Mass., June 28—(P)—A story worthy of competing with the top thrilling tales of the old whaling days was recorded today by a 17-year-old lobster fisherman who "rode" a 60-foot mammal bareback.

The strange story was told by Frank E. Cabral, Jr., after he was brought ashore by his father yesterday.

Frank and his dad were hauling lobster pots in separate dories about 500 yards apart off Race Point when a huge whale came to the surface and submerged.

Suddenly, the whale came up again—right under Frank's small dory.

BY JAMES MARLOW
PHILADELPHIA, June 28—(AP)—Youth-before-age is the ticket the Republicans are offering to the nation.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, 46-year-old Republican candidate for president, is the youngest man the Republicans have offered in years for the high job—except four years ago. Then it was Dewey at 42.

Gov. Earl Warren of California, picked by the convention as the vice presidential candidate, is 57. Both men are widely regarded as able administrators—not as crusaders or seekers-after causes far away and long ago.

Here at the convention Warren had a lot of respect as a sincere man.

Dewey, if elected and if he follows the policy he pursued as governor of New York, will make use of Warren's brains and sincerity.

Reporters close to Dewey as governor say he makes decisions only when he has the unanimous approval of his advisers.

Warren, with his reported balance and moderate judgment, will sit in on Dewey decisions if Dewey, elected, follows his Albany tactics.

Dewey might have made it somewhat easier on himself in Congress if he had picked as his vice presidential running mate Charles Halleck of Indiana.

Halleck, as majority leader in the House where the Republicans outnumber the Democrats, is a smooth, suave operator.

He has the Republicans in the House pretty well under control. And he could have been expected, as vice president and therefore president of the Senate, to be a good politician with the senators.

But there's another side to it. Halleck, at 47, is just one year older than Dewey, Warren, at 57, is 11 years older.

Under the law passed by the Republican-controlled 80th Congress, Dewey can seek office as president only twice.

If he should serve two terms, he would quit as president at 54. If Warren has two terms as vice president, he will be through at 65, hardly a time to look for the presidency.

But if Dewey had picked Halleck as a running mate and won, he would have had as his side-kick a man who, after two terms as vice president, would be only 55.

Under those circumstances, Halleck, at 55, certainly could be expected to want the presidency. So Dewey, though eight years as president, would be conscious of a man standing beside him who could be expected to make every decision in terms of a possible presidency himself.

Warren as vice president—finishing two terms at 65—can hardly be expected to think of the presidency for himself.

Therefore, the jealousy which might have been expected between Dewey and Halleck, is hardly likely to exist between Dewey and Warren.

Construction Of Lakes Is To Continue

Post-War Program of Projects Now 90 Percent Complete

Fayette County, probably for lack of concerted effort, is among Ohio counties which so far, has not shared in the lake construction program inaugurated by the Ohio Division of Conservation.

Commissioner H. A. Rider states that at the present time 90 percent of the division's post war lake construction program, has been completed.

Promises made by the conservation and Natural Resources Commission at the close of World War II have been kept and by the close of 1948 the lake construction program is expected to be finished. However, this does not mean that more lakes will not be constructed when funds are available and when construction costs are such that additional construction indicates wise use of division funds.

Recreational areas now under actual construction and some nearing completion created with funds appropriated from general revenue include Stonelick Creek lake in Clermont County of about 200 acres; a 2200 acre lake in Highland County commonly called Rockyfork; Cowan Creek Lake of 750 acres in Clinton County which is one-third completed; a $50,000 recreational development at Seneca Lake; a 2000 acre lake known as the Burr Oak project in Athens and Morgan Counties and the East Harbor development on Lake Erie which will be completed this year creating one of the finest Great Lakes recreational beaches in the United States. Already thousands of people are using the East Harbor area since it was partially opened last summer for limited use.

The East Harbor development in Ottawa County on Lake Erie together with the new lakes under construction in southwestern Ohio will serve 35 percent of the state's population figured on the basis of the population included in a 50 mile radius of the areas.

Fishing areas which have been completed and are already serving the public, constructed with division funds, include the 107 acre Lake Madison in Madison County; Clouse Lake in Perry County with 43 acres of water; Adams Lake with 74 acres of water in Adams County; Lake Grant, 200 acres of water, in Brown County; and the 97 acre Punderson Lake in Geauga County. In addition to the acres of water indicated, there is considerable land surrounding each of these lakes which is being or will be developed for public recreational purposes.

Fishing areas which now are under actual construction include a 161 acre lake on Argus Creek in Pickaway County; a 375 acre lake in Hocking County and a 505 acre lake in Knox County.

Lakes which are now under development with land either completely or partially optioned include a 150 acre lake in Morgan County; a lake in Butler County with 187 acres of water; a 184 acre lake in Defiance County; a 167 acre lake in Washington County and a lake of about 100 acres in Clark County.

The overall purpose of the division's lake development program is to provide public recreational facilities and more fishing areas without charge to the general public.

Changes Made in Personnel In U. S. Embassy in Moscow

By EDDIE GILMORE

MOSCOW, June 28—(AP)—The United States embassy in the USSR is undergoing an almost complete turnover of personnel.

Ambassador Walter B. Smith is still here, but he, too, is slated to depart before the end of the year. Informal sources say he promised President Truman to remain on here until after the elections.

Other changes shortly to be made effective include the departure and replacement of:

Minister-Counsellor Eldridge Durbrow.

First Secretary Frederick Reinhardt.

Miss Ruth Briggs, private secretary to the A. Bassador.

Military Attaché Maj. Gen. Robert Macon.

Air Attaché Brig. 3. Warren Carter.

Within the last few months the embassy has undergone many staff changes. Included among the new personnel are: a new agricultural expert, a new economic chief, a new chief of embassy administration, a new head of the consular section and new second and third secretaries and attaches. The personnel at the American house—home of enlisted men and embassy clerks—also is undergoing wholesale changes and within a month there will not be more than a dozen old faces here. Embassy sources said most of the changes result from completion of time at this post.

Camera Exhibit At Fair to Have Dozen Classes

Show Is Wide Open To Everyone—Novices Expected to Enter

One of the biggest, if not the biggest, photograph exhibit ever spread out at the Fayette County Fair is in prospect for this year.

At least the Camera Club of officers and committeemen feel that way about it. They all are full of enthusiasm and confidence.

With a deep-rooted ambition to make this year's display bigger and better than ever, they are emphasizing the need to camera fans to start now getting their prints ready.

J. Ervin Van Winkle, club vice president, acting as spokesman for the president, Ralph V. Taylor, said: "There's still time to go out and get the pictures they want to enter . . . but they can't put it off too long."

Van Winkle pointed out that there are a dozen different—vastly different—classes to cover nearly every type of photography. Here they are:

Pictorial portrait (Fayette county models)

Children (always popular)

Farm buildings (in county)

Farm activities (in county)

Livestock (in county)

Table top and still life

Candid and sports shots

Animals (a wide field)

Landscape

General Pictorial

Religious theme (premiums donated by the county Ministerial Association)

Health theme (premiums put up by county Tubercular and Health Association)

The best photograph in the entire show is to be awarded the sweepstakes ribbon, and for the picture having the highest score in the judging the Hays Camera Shop trophy will be awarded.

$120 in Prizes

All told, $120 in cash prizes are to be awarded. However, camera fans agree that the money is of secondary consideration. It is the honor that counts and the ribbons that symbolize achievement are what are treasured.

The prize money is divided the same in all 12 classes—$4 for first, $3 for second, $2 for third and $1 for fourth.

The rules are simple, but rigid. Entrants may submit any number of prints; only one money prize will be awarded to the same person in any class and the pictures must have been taken by the entrant.

Show Wide Open

While the Camera Club handles the details of the show and the arrangements, Van Winkle made it plain that the exhibits are not restricted to members of the club. In fact, he said, the show had been left wide open to give everyone a chance to enter prints.

Members of the Camera Club, many of whom have won recognition for their work at salons in some of the big shows, have said that it always is possible for the rankst novice to come up with a picture that is outstanding.

Judges for the show here have not been announced. In previous years, the judging has been done in advance to the Fair opening in order to have the ribbons in place from the start. There has been no intimation that the same policy will not be followed this year.

YOU'RE NEVER TOO OLD
You're never too old 'less you think you are,
To do some thing that you wish to do;

It's the will to do that gives you the power,
To carry on when your life seems through.

It may be a hobby that gives you zest,
Religion, garden, writing a book—
There are dozens of things oldsters can do—
It all depends how on life you look.

You can smile, be cheerful if nothing else,

Worn Out Soil Means Poor Food

Scientific Analysis By Friends of Land

ATHENS, June 28—(AP)—You can't have well fed people living off worn out soil, Dr. Jonathan Forman, editor of the Ohio State Medical Journal, said.

The most important factor in good nutrition is good food, he said in a talk prepared for the seventh annual conference on conservation, nutrition and health, sponsored by friends of the land, at Ohio University.

Your diet may be inadequate, Dr. Forman said, because the soils on which your foods were grown lacked essential elements.

"A hungry, under-nourished people," he said, "are a half sick people, physically, mentally, and spiritually. They are the real menace to our republic. Through their apathy, their ignorance, their lack of intelligence, their deficient social judgement, their sexual immaturity, and their emotional instability, they fall prey to their psychopathic compatriots who can easily lead them into revolution or into war for their own selfish ends."

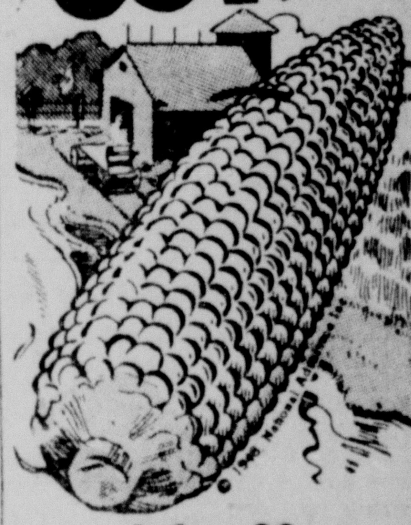

In another prepared talk Dr. Benson H. Paul stressed the need of quality control in future timber crops. He is senior silviculturist of the U. S. Forest Products laboratory, Milwaukee.

"We shall have to harvest our trees in the future at a much younger age," Dr. Paul said. "The high quality timber we have been using represents the outer 200 years growth or more of trees that are from 300 to 400 years old."

"To do this," Dr. Paul said, "foresters will have to supervise our planting and care of future timber crops. Exports will have to regulate the initial stocking; see that lateral branches are all pruned from trees when they are very young and take every step necessary to grow the trees at a uniform rate."

"Trees cannot be allowed to reforest themselves," Dr. Paul concluded.

"U. S. AIR FORCE"

is more than a new name

Never in its history has your Air Force faced heavier responsibilities. First line of defense in an unsettled world, it must continue to progress and be ready for instant action.

Today, only the best-fitted prospects are being accepted by the Air Force. But young men who measure up will have a choice of unequalled opportunities. Here they are:

- 1 By enlisting for three years, you may choose assignment to the U. S. Air Force.
- 2 If you are a high school graduate, between 17 and 34 years old, the Aviation Career Plan allows you to select and qualify for any one of more than 40 Air Force Specialist Schools before you enlist.
- 3 Veterans of the Armed Forces who are qualified in one of 300 skills and trades may re-enter service in advanced non-commissioned Air Force grades commensurate with their previous training and experience.

4 You can win your wings with the Aviation Cadets. The world's finest pilot training is open to you if you are single, 20 to 26 1/2 years old, and have completed at least half the credits for a college degree, or can pass an equivalent examination.

High pay . . . excellent training . . . interesting, vital work . . . these, too, are important considerations and strong reasons for launching your career in the Air Force. Complete details on each opportunity are available at U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Stations.

Congressional Jam Halts Important Bills

Probably for as long as Congress has existed it has piled up work for a last-minute jam before the end of each of its many sessions. State legislatures, which operate on similar principles, usually have similar final accumulations. The end of the regular sessions of the 80th Congress provided no deviation from this custom.

Many legislative proposals were caught in the jam, and so died. Among these were at least three highly significant bills—the housing bill, oleomargarine tax repeal, and Mundt-Nixon bill dealing with Communism. These bills were not discarded after thoughtful study; they were laid aside because there was no time to talk about them.

Several other measures of great importance were brought to passage in the hectic closing hours, when the senators and representatives were weary and harried and primarily interested in bringing the session to a close. When the final gavel fell, the Senate had been sitting continuously for more than 44 hours and the House for almost 21. Under such conditions were drawn and passed the final compromise forms of the draft bill, a pay increase for federal workers, a revision of postal rates, a measure fixing new terms for members of the Atomic Energy Commission, the displaced persons admission bill, the farm price support bill and the appropriation for foreign aid.

It does not seem likely that the best work of Congress would be done in the last hours of a session. Surely the last-minute rush is not a necessary evil of the legislative system of law making.

ECA In Europe

The Economic Cooperation Administration, a cumbersome title for aid to Europe, is called by most people "the Marshall Plan", a clear and simple term for a process which, in its working out, needs much clarification and simplification.

American observers in Europe believe that it is up to the governments of the countries which will benefit by this help to make its origin and its purpose clear to their people. They must realize, if its purpose is to be carried out, that the money comes from the pockets of the American taxpayers, who are ordinary citizens like themselves. The idea that this aid comes from a vast, impersonal hoard of gold is one which should be combatted by the truth.

The financial condition of the countries involved should be made public, and the extent and the manner in which American funds are used should be made known to all the people, here and there also. Only thus will its main purpose of reconstruction be carried out, together with its incidental purpose of defeating Communism. For Communism thrives on poverty and suffering. The reviving prosperity of a nation engaged in hopeful and cheerful rebuilding is the strongest weapon against it.

The best propaganda for all purposes is the simple truth, hammered home to the people themselves on both sides of the ocean.

A Chicago business is reported to have put music into its elevators. If they ever get stuck between floors, presumably the operator is instructed to turn on "Home, Sweet Home".

The $70,000 that a handless lad is getting for loss of his hands is an awful lot of money. But useful hands are worth a great deal not only to their owner but to the community.

Nobody lately seems to know just what the president is about, but a prevailing opinion is that he is about out.

Lot of Feathers Were Ruffled

By Hal Boyle

PHILADELPHIA, June 28—(AP)—The Democratic national convention, opening here July 12, will probably be an even more reverberating clamor than last week's gathering of the grand old party.

The prudent man who plans to attend it will bring his own earmuffs.

"The Republicans do a lot of shouting," said one resident of the City of Brotherly Love. "But they don't make the noise the Democrats do. Those boys really take off their shoes and go to town."

They'll have to exert themselves this year, however, if they let off more steam than the Republicans did. The elephant men really beat their victory drum.

There were four high points that stand out in memory of this carnival week during which the Republicans nominated a Dewey-Warren ticket in a strange and strong political marriage of the east and west coasts.

The first came last Tuesday night when the convention gave a stirring and sentimental ovation to Ex-President Herbert Hoover, who elevated himself

The attempt by Harold E. Stassen's supporters to stampede the convention on Wednesday night provided the second high point. In sheer boisterous exuberance the demonstration put on by his youthful followers had no appeal. It was one of the best free shows of the year.

But the voting the next day showed it took more than a chanting din to halt the Dewey steamroller. A third climax came Thursday afternoon, at the close of the second ballot. Although the results hadn't been officially announced, the convention knew Dewey had climbed to within 23 of the 548 votes he needed to win.

Both Connecticut and Michigan, anxious to climb on the Dewey bandwagon with the decisive votes, tried to get Convention Chairman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., to hold up announcement of the rollcall while they held a quick caucus on the floor.

He refused, although some Michigan delegates swarmed up on the platform, arguing with him.

"We're going to do this according to the rules," he said. "We're going to keep it honest."

He did. It was unanimous for Dewey on the third ballot.

A final impressive moment came the last day when Gov. Earl Warren of California accepted the nomination as vice president.

A relatively unknown quantity to many delegates, the stocky gray-haired governor impressed the convention with an unexpected powerful extemporaneous speech pleading full teamwork with Dewey.

"I will work with him to make this government of ours responsive to the people at all times," he said. "I will work with him to make it a humane government, a fair government, and an efficient government, and, above all, a government of integrity from top to bottom."

When he finished, the delegates cheered him even louder than they had Dewey.

It was a convention of varied personalities. Among the most interesting was perhaps the only 100-percent, red-blooded American present—chief William Spotted Crow, a 77-year-old South Dakota Sioux. He came in brilliant featured headdress to plump for Stassen, and borrowed taxi money each day from the South Dakota delegates.

Gravely explaining why he had to ride in a cab instead of one of the convention buses, the chief explained with great dignity:

"Bus ruffles my feathers." He wasn't the only one whose feathers were ruffled.

Gov. Dewey's Devoted Backers

By George E. Sokolsky

It will be a change when and if Thomas E. Dewey is elected president of the United States. In the first place, in the White House will be a quiet family, all the members of which, including father, project themselves in the public eye with difficulty. Mrs. Dewey is in no manner competing with her husband for public acclaim. As a wife she goes along, but her major interest is family life—the normal family life of the average American home in the middle west.

These Deweys are not New Yorkers, although Tom made his career there. He is from Owosso, Mich.; she is from Sapulpa, Okla. Those are small towns and if they produce small town personalities, Tom Dewey is just that and so is his lady. If they prefer to stay at home nights, maybe it is because New York life loses its thrill on acquaintance except for those who would rather be barflies than not to be seen. Anyway, Tom Dewey succeeded in making a career in the big city without giving up the simple ways of small town life. And up through success after success to the governorship of the empire state, he and Frances continued their quite and modest life.

In their personal friendships, the Deweys are much the same. Herbert Brownell, who has managed all of Dewey's political campaigns, is just a country boy from Indiana who made good in the big city. Herb once ran for state senator and Tom Dewey was his campaign manager. Then it came to be the other way about.

His two principal intellectual advisers, John Foster Dulles and Elliot Bell, are scholarly men. Dulles's grandfather, John Foster, was secretary of state, I believe out of Indiana; his uncle, Robert Lansing, was Woodrow Wilson's secretary of state; his father was a clergyman, and Foster, as he is called, is one of the principal Protestant laymen in America.

Elliot Bell is a New Yorker, a product of Columbia University, a newspaperman and an economist.

These are wholesome human beings who think in terms of a spiritual as well as a material America. Dewey has no kitchen cabinet of playboys, no retailers of night club gossip. These men and their colleagues are devoted people, all of whom have been with Dewey from the start. Many of them were with him in the gang-buster days. As a group of young men who stuck together long, they molded each other; they influenced each other; in a sense they grew up together.

It has often been said that no one can break through this coterie, that it will be an iron band around the White House. That is, of course nonsense. Men who make talent and character their test always attract men of talent and character. Birds of a feather, you know. Everyone remarked in Philadelphia how smoothly the Dewey machine worked. But few realized that it was not so much a machine as a devoted camaraderie who were accustomed to association and who set a pattern of unexcited, efficient work for any newcomers.

And of the camaraderie, the most hard-working is that tall, Brooklyn lawyer who always is where Dewey is, a sort of guardian angel, Paul Lockwood, who even more than Tom Dewey was rewarded by Dewey's nomination. For Paul sacrificed an important career of his own to serve Dewey as his secretary. His confidence paid off Thursday night in the satisfaction of knowing that it was not in vain.

I can go on describing the Dewey circle, but these examples suffice. It is a good, clean American crowd of devoted men who serve not only Dewey but their country. If they seem very quiet and simple after the gay nightclubs of Roosevelt, the country will, I am sure, be better for the change. For Dewey will give it a sober administration, with few tricks and fewer still attempts to cover error by error. It will, as he said, be done by teamwork, for never assuming the role of a know-it-all, he always delegates authority while he assumes full responsibility. He produced an excellent administration in New York State. He will do the same for America.

Diet and Health

It's Best for Sick To Get Up Soon

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ONE of the most challenging diseases known to science, ulcerative colitis, has so far defied all attempts to find either its cause or its cure. That is not to say that nobody with this disorder gets well or that treatment accomplishes nothing. Far from it. But as is always the case where the exact cause of a disease remains undiscovered, no completely satisfactory form of treatment has yet been worked out.

Colitis simply means inflammation of the colon or large intestine. In ulcerative colitis, sores, which can be plainly seen during an examination with the proctoscope, form along the walls of the bowel. The proctoscope is a tube with an electric light bulb on the end of it.

Diet Important

From time to time a good many different opinions have been advanced as to why certain people should be afflicted in this way. Some experts believe infection may be at the root of the trouble, but no germ that is definitely responsible has been found. Others think that perhaps the condition may be due to allergy or over-sensitivity to some food, but this theory, too, remains unproved. Nervous disorders and deficiencies in the diet are thought to play a part in bringing the condition about, but here, also, the evidence is too scanty for a verdict of guilt.

The patient with ulcerative colitis has many bowel movements a day. The movements contain blood and mucus.

Attacks Occur

Many patients find that the attacks occur following excessive physical or emotional strain. Patients suffer from tiredness and mental depression and often develop anemia or lessening of the coloring of the red cells in the blood.

So far as treatment goes, the ing of injections of whole blood into the veins is most helpful. Vitamins may assist in maintaining the nutrition but, since these may be poorly absorbed from the intestine, it may be necessary to administer them by injection into a vein or under the skin.

Diet Important

The diet is important and should be free of irritating or highly-seasoned food, as well as bulk and roughage. It is necessary to make sure that enough protein is supplied from such foods as meat, milk, and eggs. Often, such patients suffer from poor appetite, and it is difficult to get them to take the necessary amounts of foods.

If such treatment does not bring about improvement, or the patient continues to get worse, operation may be necessary. It would appear that surgery is required in about four out of ten cases.

The operation usually employed is one known as ileostomy. This consists of making an opening from the small intestine through the abdominal wall so that the large bowel may be washed or irrigated from time to time and given an opportunity to rest or heal.

In all instances, it is important to build up the patient's morale, since this seems to have a great effect in producing a cure.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

N. C.: I have had athlete's foot for several years. Is there anything that will get rid of the condition?

Answer: Athlete's foot is a chronic condition requiring expert care and strong drugs which, if used in the wrong way, might irritate the skin and make the disorder worse. For this reason, it is important that any preparation employed for this disease be used only under the direction of a physician.

You should consult your physician concerning proper treatment in your case.

Two WHS Girls and Teacher To Go to National Convention

Two Washington C. H. High School girls and their instructor today are making plans to attend the national convention of the Future Homemakers of America at Kansas City, Mo., July 6 to 9.

Miss Betty Ellen Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ford, and Miss Myrtle Scharenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Scharenberg, and their teacher, Mrs. Wayne Woodyard, intend to leave soon after Independence Day in order to take in the three-day conference from start to finish.

The two students will be among the 45 high school girls in Ohio to represent their state at the convention.

The two Washington C. H. representatives are majoring in vocational home economics and are members of the WHS chapter of the Future Homemakers of the Woodyard, who is head of the school's home economics department, is the club advisor.

Mrs. Woodyard said "it is a distinct honor and privilege" for the girls to get to go to this first national convention of their organization. It also includes the responsibilities. It is possible for only a few—two in this case—members of the club to take in the convention, she pointed out.

A parade of stage stunts has been arranged for the evening of the first day. The Ohio delegation, Mrs. Woodyard said, would present "Lamps of Home" and Miss Scharenberg has been assigned a part in the pageant.

At the convention, the two Washington C. H. girls will meet 4,000 other Future Homemakers from 45 states, Puerto Rico and Hawaii. Attendance was reduced, a bulletin said, by scarcity of housing facilities.

The Future Homemakers organization is made up of girls in both junior and senior high schools whose objective is a "better and happier home life for everyone." The FHA motto is "Toward New Horizons."

Crumley-Denton Wedding Was Solemnized On Sunday At First Presbyterian Church

The chancel of the First Presbyterian Church was banked with baskets of white lilies, carnations, gladioli with white fluffy bows of tulle adding a filmy touch, and was softly lighted with white tapers in four seven branch candelabra on Sunday for the open church wedding of Miss Ethel Joyce Crumley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crumley to Mr. Robert Todd Denton son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Denton.

The impressive double ring service performed by Rev. John K. Abernethy was read as the hands of the clock approached two in the afternoon and was preceded by a program of nuptial music presented by Miss Marian Osborn vocalist, Mrs. Marion Gage and Mr. Karl J. Kay, organists.

Miss Osborn's numbers included "Oh Promise Me", "De Koven", "Through The Years", "You-mans", and "Because"-D'Hardelot. Mrs. Gage who accompanied her at the organ also presented "Caprice Viennoise"-by Kreisler, and "The Sunshine of Your Smile".

Mr. Kay's organ selections were "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes", "Calm as The Night"-Bohm, "Barcarolle"-Offenbach, and the traditional wedding marches.

Miss Osborn sang at the close of the ceremony "The Lords Prayer"-Mallotte, accompanied by Mrs. Gage.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Biddy Devos, as matron of honor, Misses Mary Lou Toops and Mary Lou Reif as bridesmaids and Shirley Devos niece of the bride was the cunning little flower girl.

Mr. Don Denton, brother of the groom attended him as best man. Ushers seating the guests were Bill Davis and Don Stevens, and the family pews marked with sprigs of maiden hair fern tied with white tulle bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a white satin and marquisette gown, fashioned with a high round neck, and long sleeves ending in points over the hands.

The fitted bodice was buttoned down the back to a low waist line from which fell the graceful folds of the train and white lace outlined the deep sheer yoke.

Her fingertip veil of net was edged with lace and was caught to a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair.

She carried a large bridal bouquet of white roses, with cascaded streamers of white satin ribbon and her only jewelry was a strand of pearls the gift of the groom.

Mrs. Devos's dress was of pale green net, over taffeta, with low round neck short puff sleeves, fitted bodice and full skirt and flower headress. Miss Toops and Miss Reif wore taffeta, gowns fashioned along the same lines as the matron of honor, with Miss Reif in pink and Miss Toops in yellow. Each wore short, circular veils of net matching their gowns.

Colorful colonial bouquets were carried by each with streamers matching the color of their gowns, and all wore single strands of pearls, the gift of the bride.

The small flower girl, was dressed in fluffy short organdy frock, with a white headband, and carried a white basket of rose petals which she strew in the path of the bride. Following the ceremony an informal reception was held in the Church dining room and the bride's mother, received the guests in a grey satin dress, with which she wore white accessories and a corsage of white carnations, while the groom's mother was wearing a lace dress of toast brown, with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The lovely tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom was served with punch, and mints, by the hostesses Misses June Denton, Peggy Morris, Arden Hill and Edith Guidi who are all close friends of the bride. Later when the new Mr. and Mrs. Denton left on their wedding trip to Michigan, the bride was dressed in a grey gabardine suit with white accessories and a pink carnation corsage. Upon their return they will reside at 826 Willard Street where their newly furnished home is in readiness. The bride and groom are both graduates of Washington High School, and the groom attended both Duke University and Ohio State University.

He was a pledge of the Kappa Sigma fraternity at Ohio State University. He is now associated with his father in the implement business in this city.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Arthur McCoy entertained the members of the wedding party and out of town guests Saturday evening with a dinner at the Colonial Room of the Washington Hotel Coffee Shop at six-thirty, preceding the rehearsal of the wedding of their daughter Miss Carol Rose McCoy and Mr. Alan David Ellies whose wedding was an event of Sunday afternoon.

Out of town guests included were Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ellies, daughter, Jea, of Akron, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hume, son David, of London, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gregory, son Danny, of Plattsburg, New York, Mrs. Walter J. Engle, of Columbus, Miss Sue Ellen Kessler of Zanesville and Mrs. James A. McCoy of this city.

Dr. and Mrs. J. ## Class Members Choose Officers At Picnic Meeting

The Senior Young Adult Sunday School Class of the Grace Methodist Church held a combined business and social meeting Sunday at the roadside park near Frankfort.

About twenty members of the class with their families enjoyed a delicious picnic supper in the park grove.

In charge of arrangements for the picnic were Mr. Joe White, Mr. Stephen Brown, Mrs. William Robinson and Mrs. Howard Thompson.

The nominating committee consisting of Mr. George Inskeep, Mrs. William Clark and Mr. Roger Acton presented the following members as officers of the class for the remainder of the year: Mrs. Robert Miller, president; Mr. Stephen Brown, vice-president and Mrs. William Robinson, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Paul Mohr, assistant superintendent of the Sunday School, told of the need of additional teachers for the Sunday School during the summer months and suggested the possibility that the class might assist in securing these teachers.

The retiring president, Mr. Wendell Whiteside, spoke a few words in appreciation of the fine support and cooperation of the class during the past six months.

A social hour was enjoyed following the close of the business meeting.

Social Events Carol Rose McCoy Becomes Bride of Alan David Ellies

Mrs. Alan David Ellies

Golden sunshine streamed through the stained glass windows of the First Presbyterian Church in Washington Court House Sunday evening, at four-thirty o'clock, and its radiance seemed to pour a benediction on the solemn ceremony which united in marriage Miss Carol Rose McCoy, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Arthur McCoy, and Mr. Alan David Ellies, son of Mrs. Ernest A. Ellies and the late Mr. Ellies.

The family pews were marked with large white satin bows with streamers of fern and babies'-breath. The chancel of the church was a bower of white flowers in tall baskets tied with white bows—gladioli, lilies, carnations, and roses, with foliage of fern and babies'-breath. Tall white candles in white wrought-iron floor candleabra threw a halo of light over the white satin cushioned prie-dieu on which the bride and bridegroom knelt to receive the nuptial blessing from the Reverend John K. Abernethy who performed the impressive double ring ceremony.

The white coated ushers, each wearing a white boutonniere, who seated the three hundred guests, were Dr. James A. McCoy, brother of the bride, Mr. William H. Hastings of this city, Mr. Wilbur Hume, brother-in-law of the bride groom of London, Mr. Walter J. Engle Jr., of Columbus and Mr. William Diffenderfer of Downingtown, Pennsylvania.

Preceding the wedding ceremony a half hour program of exquisite nuptial music was presented by Miss Alma Kelsey of Wilmington, organist and Delta Gamma sorority sister of the bride, and Miss Donna Holmes of Toledo, soloist, an Ohio State University classmate. Miss Kelsey's organ numbers were "Serenade" by Schubert, "My Delta Gamma Rose", "My D. G. Rose", "Liebes-traum", by Liszt, and the traditional wedding marches by Wagner and Mendelssohn. Miss Holmes sang "Through The Years" by Youmans, "In Summer" by Stebbins, "I Love Thee" by Grieg, "To An Evening Star" from the opera "Tannhauser" and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

The lovely bride was given in marriage by her father, who escorted her to the altar. She wore a gown of white slipper satin fashioned along simple lines. The fitted pointed bodice had a roll collar and a row of self trim buttons down the front, and the long sleeves, ending in points, were trimmed with buttons. The long full skirt cascaded over a crinoline hoop and ended in a cathedral train. The three-quarter-length veil of imported illusion fell from a Dutch cap of handmade Irish crochet lace, taken from her mother's wedding gown. A wreath of stephanotis was under the brim of the cap. She carried a small white Bible belonging to the bridegroom's mother, centered with a pale pink orchid from which fell satin streamers tied with stephanotis.

The bride's attendants were her sister, Mrs. William A. Kessler of Zanesville matron of honor, Miss Virginia Craig of this city, maid of honor, and the bridesmaids Miss Anna Baumgartner of Sylva, niece of the bride, Miss Gloria Hume, London, niece of the bridegroom, and Miss Dee Ann Gregory, niece of the bride, of Plattsburg, New York, was the tiny flower girl. The matron of honor and the maid of honor were dressed identically in white silk net worn over white taffeta. The net bodices of white had the off-shoulder effect and the long ruffled skirts were worn over hoop skirts and had wide aqua sashes in bustle effects. Their Juliet caps of aqua net over white were trimmed with white flowers and had large aqua bows in the back. The bridesmaids dresses were similar to those of the matron and maid of honor. They wore picture hats of aqua ruffled net, with large aqua bows in the back. All the attendants carried bridal bouquets.

Little Dee Ann Gregory was a charming miniature bride in long white satin gown, short sleeves; picture hat and white gloves. From her little basket she strewed rose petals in front of the bride.

Mrs. McCoy chose for her daughter's wedding a gray crepe dress with hand tucked trim and navy accessories. Mrs. Ellies wore a black dress with applique trim and black accessories. Both mothers were wearing corsages of purple orchids.

Mr. Donald Focht of Eaton, attended the bride groom as best man.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony Dr. and Mrs. McCoy entertained the bridal party and approximately three hundred guests with an elaborate reception at the Washington Country Club. Tall vases of white gladioli, carnations and fern formed the background for the long bridal table at which the bride and groom cut the three tiered wedding cake, and from which delicacies were served under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Devins, club hostess. Mrs. Ronald Gregory, Mrs. Richard Steimel and Mrs. James McCoy poured and Misses Nancy Lee James and Jacqueline Young served the cake.

Mrs. Robert Allen and Miss Marie Marchant presided at the punch bowl and other assisting hostesses were Misses Mary Carolyn Rhoads, Jean McCoy, Helen Adams, and Mrs. Robert Lanum.

Later the new Mr. and Mrs. Ellis left for a honeymoon trip through the Eastern States and Canada. The bride had changed to a summer weight gabardine suit, with box coat and straight skirt with matching hat. At her shoulder she wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return they will reside at 225 North Hinde Street until early fall when they both will resume their college studies. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ellis are popular members of the younger set and both are graduates of the Washington High School and both attended Ohio State University. After Mr. Ellis returned from World War II he enrolled in the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Athletics Edge Eagles In 13-Inning SCO Game

A run in the last half of the 13th inning finally ended a 3½-hour pitchers' battle Sunday afternoon at Greenfield and gave the Athletics a 4 to 3 victory over the Washington C. H. Eagles.

Bill Schmitter, on the mound for the Eagles, and Ben Harrison, doing the hurling for the Athletics, were about equally effective in the ding-dong game. If anything, Schmitter has a little edge in everything except the score. He issued but three bases on balls compared to five by Harris and fanned 14 compared to 11 by the Greenfielder.

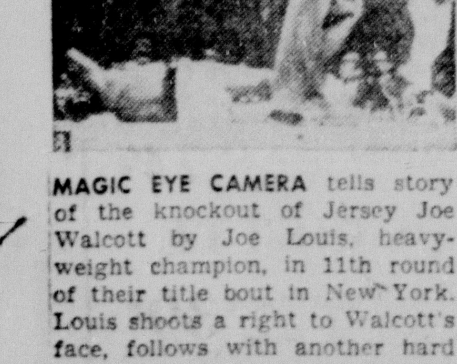

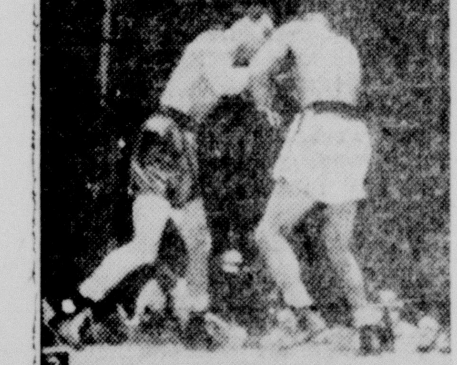

This was the fourth one-run de-

Only 2 Good Rounds To Title Fight, Says Tut Jackson on Return

The Joe Louis-Joe Walcott championship fight may be history now most place, but not here in Washington C. H.

James Jackson—known to his many friends here and throughout the world of fisticuffs as "Tut" Jackson—was there and saw it. Now he is giving the fight fans here his analysis and interpretation of what went on in the ring at Yankee Stadium last Friday night. And he has a lot of open-mouthed listeners.

You can take it from Tut that the fight was as dull as the radio announcer led you to believe it

'Stop Red Sox' Is Chant in AL

Reds Beat Giants Before Rain Comes

By JOE REICHLER
(By the Associated Press)

The old familiar cry of "stop those Boston Red Sox" is being heard once again around the American League.

During the past month this has been the most herculean task in baseball. Paced by Ted Williams and Vern Stephens at the plate and Joe Dobson and Dave (Doc) Ferriss on the mound, the red hot Red Sox have knocked off every kind of opposition to leap right back into the pennant scramble.

Today, with 17 victories in 22 starts during the month of June, the Sox are firmly entrenched in the first division only five and a half games behind the pace-setting Cleveland Indians. This easily has been the best June showing of any club in the circuit.

The Red Sox moved another full game nearer the top yesterday when they swept a doubleheader from the Browns, 2-0 and 6-3, in St. Louis. The twin triumph gave the Red Sox a record of nine victories in their last 11 games. Yesterday's second game was limited to seven innings by rain.

It was Williams again who provided the winning blow in the nightcap. Ted slammed his 16th home run with two men on base in the first inning to get the Sox off on the right foot. Williams' batting average is now .415. He leads all hitters with 69 runs batted in. He was a 15-game hitting streak going.

The Athletics swept a doubleheader from the White Sox, 6-5 and 6-2, in Chicago to pull within 11 percentage points of first place. The double victory, Philadelphia's sixth and seventh in a row, marked the first time this season the White Sox have gone down to two defeats in one day.

Young Carl Scheib allowed 11 hits in the opener but managed to stagger through to victory. Dick Fowler gained his fifth triumph with an eight-hitter in the nightcap.

The Indians kept first place by coming back to defeat Washington, 4-1, in the second game after the Senators had won the opener of their twin bill, 5-2.

Lefty Tommy Byrne, making his first start of the season, handcuffed the Tigers with two hits in Detroit as the Yankees won a 7-0 shutout. The Yankees got nine hits off Paul Trout and Stubby Overmire.

The Boston Braves retained their half game lead over the St. Louis Cardinals in the tight National League race by turning back the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-1. Boston teed off against Pirate starter Vic Lombardi for two runs in the second inning to take a lead they never relinquished.

Home runs by Stan Musial and Marty Marion, and a two-run triple by Nippy Jones, sparked the Cardinals to a 6-4 victory over the Dodgers in Brooklyn.

The game was called at the end of eight innings because of rain and darkness. The round tripper was No. 17 for Musial, who is batting .405.

Reds Beat Giants

Scoring two runs after two were out in the seventh inning, the Cincinnati Reds came from behind to nip the New York Giants, 4-3, in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. The second game was postponed by rain.

The Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies divided a doubleheader in Philadelphia, the Cubs winning the opener 6-2, and the Phils taking the nightcap, 7-4. The second game was called after eight innings because of the Sunday 6 P. M. (EST) curfew.

Good Hope Wins Over Frankfort

Game Ends 13 to 1 After Slow Beginning

After getting off to a dragging slow start, the SWO League game between Good Hope and Frankfort wound up in a clean sweep for the Good Hope boys, 13 to 1, on the Frankfort diamond.

Good Hope made a single run in the second inning, but Frankfort equalled it in the fourth. Then in the sixth, Good Hope made two bringing the score to 3-1.

In the eighth, Good Hope went hog-wild. Pounding out four hits and taking advantage of two errors and two walks, the Fayette boys brought in seven men to boost the score to 10-1.

As the ninth inning rolled around, Good Hope scored three to end the game at 13 to 1.

It was almost an interfamily duel. Three Dawes brothers, headed by moundsman Bob Dawes, played for Good Hope. Three Bryants, including pitcher H. Bryant, did the job for Frankfort.

The game also put two Rea brothers—both shortstops—on opposition teams. Earl Rea of Washington C. H. is Good Hope shortstop, while Carl Rea of near Frankfort did the shortstop honors for the host team.

Bob Dawes, who pounded out the game's only homer as the first batter up in the sixth, hurled the entire game and struck out eight. H. Bryant, the losing pitcher, struck out six.

Good Hope plays Midland City at Good Hope on Sunday and is host Monday to Blanchester.

Hogan To Ease Up But Won't Retire, He Says After Win

By FRITZ HOWELL

TOLEDO, June 28—(P)—Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret had their third consecutive—and final—Inverness four-ball championship, plus a check for $3,500, tucked away today.

It was their final title, because Hogan announced at the 126-hole best-ball tourney's conclusion that he would not be back next year, and that he was curtailing his golfing activities by eliminating "the longer events."

"I'm not retiring," Hogan said, "for I plan to play golf all my life. But these tournaments are quite a grind, especially the long ones."

Hogan and Demaret spread-eagled the field in the Inverness classic, winning by 10 points over Chick Harbert of Detroit and Vic Ghezzi of Kansas City, for the greatest winning margin in the 11 years of the classic which they've won four times.

They picked up an additional $250 for shooting 52 birdies in the 126 holes, another record, and they turned in a pair of consecutive 60's, lowest ever recorded in the best-ball event, for another $250.

Atomic Facts Are Uncertain, Physicist Says

Scientists Must Back Up If Truth Is To Be Ascertained

By RENNIE TAYLOR
PASADENA, Calif., June 28—(AP)—Scientists may have to back up on some of their theories before they learn the real nature of matter, says Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, famed atomic physicist. Knowledge of the inside of the atom is so uncertain he told the closing session of a cosmic ray symposium here, that it has led to some "nonsensical" conclusions. "It is possible," he said "that we not only don't know what the elementary particles of matter are but that the whole way of thinking about their interaction which we have derived from theory may be quite wrong."

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE
ANDREW spent most of the day supervising the work in the kitchen, where he had decided to have a field day. None of these clinical-looking white kitchens for him! He could just imagine how cold and cheerless it would seem on a frigid winter morning. Instead, he was having it wood-paneled, with a dark maroon linoleum on the floor. There would be plain white ruffled, cross-barred curtains at the windows, and some pots of geraniums between his parsley and chives on the recessed sills, and copper pans upon the walls. Wylie approved. "It'll look nice," he had volunteered, when Andrew showed him the plans. One of the hardest things to find had been flooring for the new living room. It was only by chance that Andrew had heard of the projected razing of an old house which was falling in upon itself near the river. He had arranged to have the pick of the flooring, and while there was much that had to be discarded, the house had been large, and he had found that there would be enough for his room. A truck lumbered into the muddy driveway to deliver it now, and Andrew, going outside, recognized his friend Joshua Beadle. "Well, I see you meant it," Beadle said, his blue eyes twinkling down at Andrew from the high driver's seat. "You said you'd settle here, and you did."

"Yes, and thanks to you, I've been very comfortable," Andrew told him warmly. "You mean Miz Potts? Shucks, I knew you'd like it there. If she'd take you. But I guess you got a way with women—I hear she's boarding you now."

"Only until I get moved in here. But it's a great help, not to have to run into town for my meals. Let me give you a hand with that flooring."

Andrew, when by accident he did glance into a mirror, thought he looked very well. His skin had a ruddy glow, and his eyes were bright. Skin and bones, he laughed to himself, letting out his belt a notch. Well, he'd lost it again when he was doing his own cooking, and working about the farm. He wrote Bigelow to send up his furniture the third week in May. He had checked over an inventory which the butler had sent him some days before, and had decided which pieces he would want. Surprisingly, he owned more furniture than the house would hold comfortably. He was glad that he would not have to buy any. He even had draperies, he remembered with a feeling of pleasure. Bigelow sent them up in advance of the other things. They were much too long, of course—the Delacourt ceilings had been high—but he could have them altered to fit the Wheeler windows. He took them to Mrs. McClure himself one morning, after they arrived.

He hadn't seen Joan since the night they had quarreled. Though he had looked forward to taking her to the Priests' house, her mother had telephoned that she had a cold and couldn't go. He had consoled himself that she could hardly invent a cold, when it was her employer's invitation, sure! Alec would have known whether she was faking or not. But he had so looked forward to that evening. It was to have been his chance to set things right between them. Now that he understood what was behind her attitude, he felt he might make some progress. But, he thought disconsolately, there was small chance of making headway if he didn't see her.

He had tried dropping in at the Branfield Lumber Supply Company on some business pretext or other, but both times she had been busy—once on the telephone, once trying to soothe an irate customer—and had barely nodded to him.

Mrs. McClure led the way to their third floor apartment in the old house. The furniture was shabby and cheap, and Andrew realized that all the fine antiques from Boston, which Mrs. Potts had told him about, must have been sold when Mrs. McClure was struggling to rearrange her life. Her manner was completely assured, however, despite the poor appearance of the apartment, and he understood that her values were based on more intangible things than possessions. He liked her all the more for it.

"What have you in those huge bundles?" she asked now, as he set them down on the floor of the sitting room. "Curtains," he answered. "These used to be in my old home, and they've been in storage, but they're perfectly good, and I thought they could be made to fit my windows. If you'd take on the job," he added hastily.

"Let me see," she said noncommittally, helping him with the unwrapping. He pulled out the creased embroidered ones which had hung in his father's bedroom. The soft blues and greens and golds of the wool swirled in an intricate design across the neutral background. Birds and flowers of Oriental imagery in muted jungle tones.

Mrs. McClure caught her breath a little. "Oh," she said, her eager fingers reaching out to touch them, "they're beautiful!"

"I thought I'd use those in the living room—you know I've converted the barn into a living room," Andrew said, "but they're all much too long. And these," he rummaged beneath the creased embroideries and brought up a pair of hand-blocked linen draperies. "These I thought would look well in the dining room."

Mrs. McClure tore her gaze from the new curtains and stared at the linen. "Andrew," she murmured, "what magnificent material!"

"And these," he untied the second parcel, and drew forth a curtain of glazed chintz, the background a rosy apricot against which creamy flowers and yellow-green leaves spread themselves with repetitive grace. Touches of maroon and a dull blue kept the design from seeming insipid. "I have a lot of these," he said, "so I thought I'd use them in both the library and my bedroom, and perhaps have enough left for one of the upstairs rooms, as well."

Mrs. McClure fondled the chintz with knowing fingers, and did not answer. "Do you think that would be too much of a good thing?" he asked her. "I'd vary the wall coloring, of course, and I think it wouldn't be too noticeable."

"I wouldn't worry about that," she said absently. "But, Andrew, I don't see how you can bear to have me cut into these. It's a crime to waste any of this material."

"I don't intend to waste it," he said at once. "I thought I could use what was left for cushions, or save it for seat covers, or something like that."

She gave him a fleeting glance of approval. Then she sat back in her chair and stared at the glowing mass of color at her feet. "Andrew," she said suddenly, "that man you told me about—the man who used to own the Cadillac, and who lost his money—was that you?"

"Yes," he said in a low voice. Would she, too, misunderstand him, as Joan had done? "I thought so," she said now. "I thought so at the time, but I couldn't be sure, of course. But these—these made a small gesture toward the pile of curtains—these spell wealth to anyone who knows good things." She straightened up, then smiled at him. "Well, I'm glad for your sake that you were able to save something when it went."

His heart skipped a beat. "You mean—you mean, you don't mind that I used to have money?" he asked.

"I'm not Joan, Andrew," she said with a little humorous twist to her mouth, "and so I don't condemn a person for having been rich. You see, Joan grew up at a time when our household was in a state of real turmoil, and she can't forget it. But I was grown, and settled in my attitude toward life, before money ever came into the picture—and all the trouble that money brought with it," she added in a low voice.

He knew that she had closed the subject, and he turned to go. "Then you'll alter these for me?" he asked, with his hand on the door-knob. "It will be a pleasure to work with material like that, Andrew, even though it's going to hurt every time I have to cut off a piece," she answered him. He went away feeling cheered. Mrs. McClure liked him. She understood that money did not necessarily have a warping effect on character. Perhaps she could, in her quiet way, get Joan to see it, too. At any rate, it gave him something to hope for.

Republicans in Red After Convention

WASHINGTON, June 28—(AP)—The Republican national committee went into the party's convention month in the red for its January-to-June financial operations. Reports on file today with the clerk of the House of Representatives showed the committee had taken in $285,126 from the first of the year to May 31, but had spent $329,713. This left a $44,587 deficit.

The Democratic national committee was in considerably better shape. It received $516,744 and spent $272,199. The Democrats hold their convention next month. Henry Wallace's third party had overspent itself $49,460 by the end of May. The national Wallace for president committee reported it had taken in $292,498, and spent $341,958 since it was organized.

NEW YORK, June 28—(AP)—A $47-a-week elevator starter, who a witness said had "such a beautiful way of talking," was convicted last night of squandering some $118,000 his friends gave him to invest.

The gray-haired defendant, Gus Fusaro, 54, was found guilty by a jury on five counts of grand larceny and bucket shop operations.

Assistant District Attorney Francis X. Clark said Fusaro posed as a big-time Wall Street operator to talk friends into turning money over to him for investment in the stock market.

Kaiser Stock Deal Fraud Is Reported

WASHINGTON, June 28—(AP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission said today there were indications of "fraud or other illegal act" in the collapse of a plan for marketing $10,000,000 of new Kaiser-Frazier motor stock early this year.

The commission made the statement in a petition filed in federal district court here. Acting on the petition, U. S. Judge T. Alan Goldsborough ordered two Cleveland attorneys to appear before him and explain their refusal to give testimony in SEC's investigation of the plan's failure.

The attorneys are Marvin C. Harrison and Allan Hull, who refused to testify about legal services rendered for Cyrus S. Eaton, head of the banking firm of Otis and Company. They contended theirs was an attorney-client relationship which gave them the right to refuse.

Police Arrest Dozen Persons Over Week-end

Two Women From New Holland Included In the List

Police were usually busy over the weekend, with the result that in addition to making investigations and picking up seven persons for intoxication, they landed two men in jail for fighting; two women wanted in New Holland for malicious destruction of property and one driver for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

The alleged intoxicated driver was Charles R. Paxson, 56, service station operator, of Wilmington, who posted $300 bond for his appearance in police court Tuesday at 10 A. M.

He was taken into custody at 2 A. M. Sunday.

Part of those arrested for intoxication posted bond for their appearance and others were waiting for arraignment before Judge R. H. Sites Monday.

Chester A. Scott, 43, city and Fred Mabra, 28, city, were arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct and when police reached the scene of combat, they found Mabra was holding Scott to the floor. Both bore marks of battle and were released on $50 bond, to appear in police court Monday, where the price of disorderly conduct has been increased in recent weeks.

In response to call from New Holland, Mrs. Pearl Chandler and Grace Blanton were taken into custody here and turned over to the New Holland police chief on charges of malicious destruction of property.

They were to be given a hearing in mayor's court in New Holland Monday.

Mrs. G. L. Walker Dies at Rest Home

Mrs. Leete Walker, 76, 710 Church Street, passed away at 7 P. M. Saturday at the Carr Rest Home. She had been in failing health several months and was at the rest home three days at the time of her death.

Mrs. Walker was the wife of George L. Walker. She was born in Greene County, lived in Chicago for many years and moved to Washington C. H. in 1935.

Survivors are her husband, one son, William Anchutz of Washington C. H.; six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 P. M. Tuesday at the Klever Funeral Home with Rev. Henry Leeth in charge. Burial will be in the family lot in Washington Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

Picnic Plans Are Made By Jasper Stitches

With Mary Creamer, the president, in the chair, Jasper Stitches held their regular meeting at the home of Shirley Ratliff. Plans were made for the picnic scheduled for Monday at the roadside park near West Lancaster.

The roll call by Shirley Ratliff, the secretary showed seven persons present. The treasurer's report indicated a total balance of $21.52. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. Charles Butler, advisor, demonstrated bound buttonholes. The next meeting will be held at 2 P. M. Friday at the home of Joy Templin.

Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Phillips, 65, native of Pike County but resident of this city since 1926, died at her home, 1103 S. Sycamore St., at 12:30 P. M. Saturday.

Her husband, Clarence Phillips, died 16 years ago. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Mae E. Rapp, of Waverly; three sons, John F., Virgil and Everett, all of Washington C. H.; 17 grandchildren, four great grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Pierson, this city, and Mrs. Edna Ott, Columbus.

Friends may call at the residence up until 11 A. M. Tuesday. Short services will be held at the residence at 11 A. M. Tuesday, and the regular funeral services will be held at Nippen Christian Union Church at 1 P. M. Tuesday, and burial will be made in Pleasant Hill Cemetery, under direction of the Cox and Parrett Funeral Home.

County Courts

SUES FOR $13,950
Blanche K. Boyer, 534 Columbus Avenue, has instituted suit in common pleas court against Duane E. Knapp, a minor under 18 years of age, and Verner W. Knapp, his father, of Jeffersonville, for $13,950 damages growing out of injuries sustained June 27, 1947, when the plaintiff was struck by a car driven by Duane Knapp, and badly injured, as she was crossing Court Street at Hinde Street about 9 P. M.

The plaintiff claims she was badly injured as result of the negligence and carelessness of Duane Knapp, and that her injuries are of a permanent nature and have caused her heavy expense and suffering, as well as deprived her of ability to work part of the time.

The plaintiff asks $10,000 damages; $750 for expenses resulting from the injuries; $1200 for time lost and $2000 exemplary damages. R. L. Brubaker represents the plaintiff.

Science Lecture Is Given Here

Friendship, Healing Is Subject Sunday

The annual free public lecture on Christian Science under the auspices of First Church of Christ Scientist, Washington C. H., was given in the High School auditorium on Sunday afternoon by Robert S. Van Atta, C. S. of Rochester, N. Y., a member of the board of lecturership, of the Mother Church, in Boston, Mass.

The speaker was introduced by Marvin E. Thornburg, who spoke a message of welcome to those attending.

The subject of Mr. VanAtta's lecture was Christian Science: The religion of Friendship and Healing.

The lecturer spoke substantially as follows:

Most people like to make friends and have normal and helpful relationships with their fellow men. How barren human life would be without affection and companionship! There is a deep yearning in our hearts to love and be loved. Friendship of the right sort is a foretaste of heaven, or harmony.

And yet how often do human friendships fail! How often this happy state suffers grievous discord! Friends become foes, companions forsake us, and we find disappointment and grief instead of helpfulness and love. Then must we look higher for strength and comfort; we must find a truer and more lasting friendship. The sense of friendship which attaches to material personality is temporal and delusive, like all material things; but as we learn through Christian Science to lay hold upon eternal spiritual reality, as we fasten our affections on infinite love, we discover the foundation of real brotherhood and healing.

God The Friend

To know ourselves and others as children of God, we must understand the nature of God. The Bible gives the histories of many spiritually-minded men and women who were well acquainted with God and found Him to be their friend. We were told that 'Abraham—was called the friend of God.' (James 2:23.) It is recorded in another place that 'the Lord spake unto Moses face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend.' (Ex. 33:11.)

Through the study and practice of Christian Science we realize that we, too, are friends of God. We feel God's power and presence, and we partake of his love. We realize something of the infinitude of good, and express it in our daily lives. We begin to find the universe friendly, for enmity is being erased by love. The way to universal brotherhood is revealed in the Bible and explained and taught in Christian Science. In the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, has written (P. 276), "When the divine precepts are understood, they unfold the foundation of fellowship, in which one intelligent source, in accordance with the Scriptural command: 'Let this Mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus.'"

In this age when the chaos of material laws seemed to be submerging the human race, Christian Science has come as the Comforter promised by Jesus. It brings essentially the same message of brotherhood and healing that he brought. The message might be paraphrased thus: "Love and understand God as Spirit, and man as His likeness, and you will fulfill all the good law and nullify all the rest."

Mary Baker Eddy
Mary Baker Eddy was divinely commissioned to bring to the present age the complete revelation of God's nature and ways, the truth about the universe and man. God uses in His work those who are fitted to carry out His good purpose. Mrs. Eddy was ready for the great task God imposed upon her.

Band Practice Tuesday In Little Theater

Band practice will be held Tuesday evening at Washington C. H. High School, William B. Clift Jr., band leader, announced. The junior band will meet at 6:30 P. M. and the senior band at 7:30 P. M. in the little theater. It is reached through the Temple Street entrance.

Clift also announced that senior awards have been received and may be picked up by graduates as they return their uniforms. He said a number of uniforms have been returned and urged all seniors who have not done so to return them as soon as possible.

Former Showman Summoned Sunday

Word was received here Monday of the death of Jesse Nolan, native of Washington C. H., who passed away in Springfield Sunday at 12:40 A. M., after having been in ill health a year or more. His condition had been critical for the past three weeks.

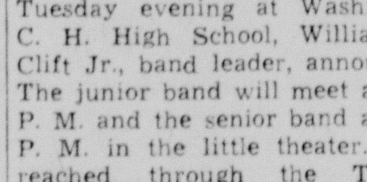

Mr. Nolan was with the John Robinson and Hagenback-Wallace circuses for 35 years, but for the past 10 years he had been employed in outdoor advertising, in Dayton.

During the many years he was with the two big shows, he traveled throughout the country during the show season, and spent most of his winters here.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Minnie Dakin Nolan, formerly of Washington C. H., and an uncle, Harry (Doc) Nolan, of Dayton.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of Jackson-Lytle funeral home, Springfield, with burial in the Washington C. H. Cemetery Tuesday at 10:30 A. M.
